

Red Honeysuckle

Lonicera dioica

-Red Honeysuckle (a.k.a. Limber Honeysuckle and Mountain Honeysuckle) is a perennial woody vine that can compliment many shoreland properties. If you like the look of vines growing up trees or through rock retaining walls, I would highly recommend this plant.

-One of the wonderful attributes of Red Honeysuckle is that it will attract many butterflies and hummingbirds.

-The leaves of Red Honeysuckle wrap around its stems. Red Honeysuckle can grow in areas from sun full to full shade. It is a really interesting and versatile plant.
